CBC Updates

Micaela Mercado has joined CBC as Director, Program Evaluation and Monitoring. Most recently Micaela served as the Assistant Commissioner with the Bureau of Systems Strengthening and Access at the NYC Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH) where she was responsible for the planning, rollout and management of Thrive NYC initiatives. Prior to her work at the DOHMH, Micaela was a Research Associate at the McSilver Institute for Poverty Policy and Research.

We are pleased to also welcome: Kay Goodman, as a Quality Improvement Specialist. Kay has over 15 years of experience in the social service industry, beginning her career working directly with the substance use disorder population and shifting her focus and passion in the last 6 years to quality assurance and compliance. Most recently she was a QA/QI Specialist with Institute Living where she worked with multiple programs to ensure that they maintained quality and performance standards. Prior to her work at ICL, she worked as a Compliance Specialist with Welicare and learned the complexities of the varying health and mental health laws, regulations and standards that govern social service programs like those operating here at CBC and our partnering agencies.

There are also a few staff changes in our organizational structure as a way to streamline the core functions within CBC as well as ensure that staff are aligned in a more meaningful way to best leverage the collective expertise and skills. CBC now has a Program Director level made up of: Melissa Martinez, MS, Director, Health Homes, Deeana Dobrer, MS, Director, Staten Island Programs and Cordelia Nervi, MPA, Director, Health Information Technologies. As part of the Quality Performance Management Department restructuring, Emily Silver, LMSW and Arlene Morales, LMSW have received title changes, Quality Improvement Specialists.

On a bittersweet note, Mathew Smith will be embarking on the next chapter of his career. He has accepted a position as the new COO for Advance Care Alliance. While we are sad to see him go, he has made significant contributions to CBC in his time here with us, we are thrilled for his new opportunity.

Program Updates

Pathway Home:

The Pathway Home program offers temporary cell phones to recipients leaving the hospital to ensure they are able to communicate with their providers and social network until a permanent plan is set up. This allows Pathway Home to continue to explore more sophisticated mobile texting and telehealth platforms to further improve communication.

Helping, Engaging, and Linking to Health Interventions (Health IH):

The SI PPS is partnering with Coordinated Behavioral Care (CBC) on an exciting new project – HEALTH IH (Helping, Engaging, and Linking to Health Interventions). The program will focus on providing a safety net of resources to individuals with complex chronic conditions who are also affected by the social determinants of health. See Press Release. The HEALTH IH project will locate and actively engage individuals who have serious behavioral and medical conditions and use wrap-around enhancement funds to address immediate, easily solved social needs, such as food and clothing, in order to secure trust and engagement in care. The HEALTH IH interdisciplinary teams’ outreach efforts will be in person at the individual’s address, known hangouts, and through known social networks. If an individual is hospitalized at the time of referral, the HEALTH IH team will engage with them, as well as the inpatient staff, at the hospital and take on an active role in the discharge and aftercare planning process as both their advocate and a community services expert. The HEALTH IH team will provide 24/7 on call coverage, ensuring support network have access to community services and care at all times. The team will utilize CBC’s network of services to expedite access to crisis services such as respite beds and weekend clinic services. A Letter of Intent (LOI) was distributed among our Member Agencies and the Independent Review Panel (IRP) will be making a selection and recommendation to CBC in the coming week.

CBC IPA Networking Series

CBC will begin hosting a series of informational sessions beginning in April 2018: CBC IPA Networking Series. These are envisioned as a series of themed events that will bring our member and network agencies together to discuss the continued clinical collaboration and quality improvement needed across the IPA. As we are moving towards clinical integration between our providers who often work side by side in the community, we also want to address provider needs; we look forward to discussing best practices, barriers, and possible solutions to ultimately deliver the best quality of care across our network. We intend to start this Networking Series with decision makers and supervisory staff from our housing programs. Aja Evans, in her role as Community Integration Manager, will be working on developing and promoting these meetings. More information on these Networking Series will be forthcoming.

CBC CARE MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS UTILIZING WELLPASS—A MOBILE TEXTING PLATFORM

CBC has partnered with Wellpass, a HIPAA compliant text message platform that manages engagement through 1:1 texting. The Wellpass user sends the text through the platform (via computer or mobile application), and it appears on the member’s phone as a regular text message—a smartphone or data plan is not required on the part of the member. This technology allows for sending scheduled reminders about medication or appointments or it can be used for regular text message conversation.

• Nine Health Home care management agencies and the Pathway Home program are actively using Wellpass.
• We have nearly 800 Health Home and Pathway Home members actively using Wellpass, exchanging over 5,000 text messages with care coordinators so far in 2018.
• Services for the UnderServed (SUS) is our top Wellpass user: SUS care coordinators have sent more than 1,500 text messages to members so far in 2018.

For Pathway Home teams, flexibility to meet recipients frequently is essential to ensure improved health outcomes. It is common for multiple weekly visits or even daily visits to occur. To supplement and offer support in between visits, staff use phone calls or other means of communication. Nonetheless, there remain large pockets of time where urgent matters can arise or even a small gesture of support can minimize the loneliness that may lead to decompensation. This technology facilitates the other relationship building and ongoing communication between the staff and member. One PH Clinician remarked “It encourages me to reach out more. Being in the field, scheduling a phone call is more time consuming than sending a text message in between visits.” “I have seen great benefits for the recipients with secure text messaging...it has really helped build relationships,” says another PH clinician.

Take Luz, a shy 19-year-old who was not talkative during in-person meetings or over the phone. When Luz started using the texting application, she would type out answers to questions about her goals and symptoms, in a way never detailed in verbal conversation. As someone who had experienced suicidal ideation and had serious attempts, she often described feeling “overwhelmed in life,” Wellpass was helpful for her PH team member to be able to monitor her signs and symptoms through her text message responses in ways that were not apparent in person or telephonically. During a trip out of state, it proved a useful way to keep in touch and check in regularly with her.

PH staff say it best; “For my own clinical work, it’s been monumental to break out of traditional phone calls. Not to mention, this is how most of us communicate in 2018.” “It makes my job a lot more convenient, authentic, and genuine.”

PATHWAY HOME APPOINTMENT CARDS

Pathway Home has designed post cards that staff can offer recipients. The post cards are intended for PH recipients to have easy access to crucial health-care related information. The front of the card includes information for Pathway Home staff name and number, as well as their physician with name, title, phone number and address. The back of the card includes appointment reminders for up to six slots as well as a calendar. The cards also include the 24/7 on-call number. “This post card offers a friendly and fun way to convey how to reach out to one’s Case Manager and Doctors. The PH staff are constantly searching for creative ways to instill the habit of remembering appointments and being proactive in one’s care. The eventual goal is for people to be engaged and accountable in their own healthcare.”
